You make it better

We aim to make it better for cancer patients in Sussex - we can't do it without you

All too often it is the tragic side of cancer that is publicised. Yet, as our record proves, most people can be helped and many cured with our sophisticated equipment and dedicated team of consultants, nurses and radiographers.

Established in 1981, the charity progressed to include the funding and development of research and is now known as the Sussex Cancer Fund for Treatment & Research. This enables a detailed research programme to be carried out at the Centre which benefits patients locally and also contributes to the national research programme.

The Fund has worked hand in hand with the NHS to create new and improved facilities to help us maintain the best possible cancer care for the people of Sussex. Over the years we have raised over £1 million to improve facilities and make our department more attractive, comfortable and effective.

Some of our improvements include:

- A comfortable patients' lounge
- A more accessible entrance and reception
- Up to date Impression Suite and the latest immobilisation system
- The North extension released offices to provide vital clinical space
- The patient and carers' car park

Future plans for the Fund include enhancing patient facilities by funding further building works to the Sussex Cancer Centre including a Chemotherapy Day Unit and other treatment areas - but we need your help.

Legacies, covenants, donations and fund-raising events will ensure that we achieve our aim of making things better for our patients with the best possible cancer treatment.

Please help - you can make it better.
